

Stoicism on the Human Good

"Living in Agreement with Nature"

- From the standpoint of physics (study of nature)
 - sometimes conventional goods can be bad
 - the only thing that benefits us unconditionally is virtue
 - so living in agreement with nature = living virtuously
- From the standpoint of logic (study of reason)
 - to follow nature, we must attend to our impressions
 - the human power to deal with impressions is the mind/reason
 - this is the only thing under our direct control
 - so nature requires attending to what's under our control
- Connect physics with logic
 - the Sage lives in full agreement with nature
 - uses reason correctly in evaluating impressions
 - acts with knowledge
 - so virtue = wisdom = responding well to impressions

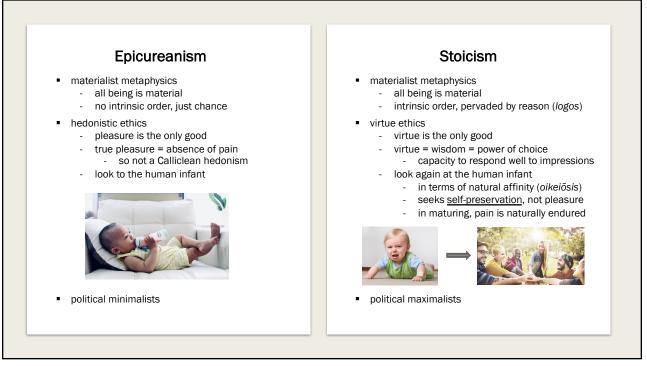

The Serenity Prayer

God, grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference.

- Reinhold Niebuhr

OVERVIEW OF REST OF TODAY'S CLASS

- Stoicism vs. Epicureanism
- The Stoics on emotions
- The Sage vs. the Progressor
- Preferred and dispreferred indifferents"
- Challenges for Stoicism
- Modern Stoicism

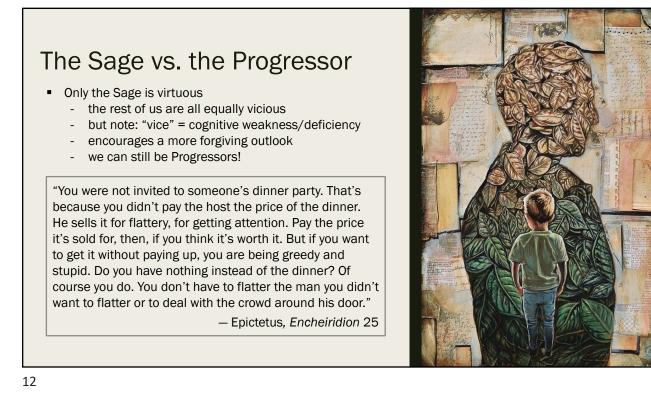

Summary of the Stoic Sage

- Wise
 - responds well to impressions
- Politically engaged
 cares for all humankind
- Wishes with reservation
 focuses on efforts rather than outcomes
- Handles adversity well keeps calm; carries on
- Emotionally healthy

 affected by what's truly good/bad
- "Unflappable"

The Sage vs. the Progressor

- How to be a Stoic Progressor
 - don't focus on outcomes and impressions
 - focus on how you judge and respond internally
 - "the inner self" = "will" = capacity for rational choice
 - this is under your control
 - all external goods are "indifferents"
 - these things are outside your control
 - "preferred indifferents"
 - money, job, pleasure, health, fame, victory, etc. "dispreferred indifferents"
 - poverty, social isolation, physical pain, defeat, etc.
 - perform duties in line with the roles you may have accords with our nature as human/social beings
 - but be prepared to give all of this up and carry on

"Accept humbly; let go easily."

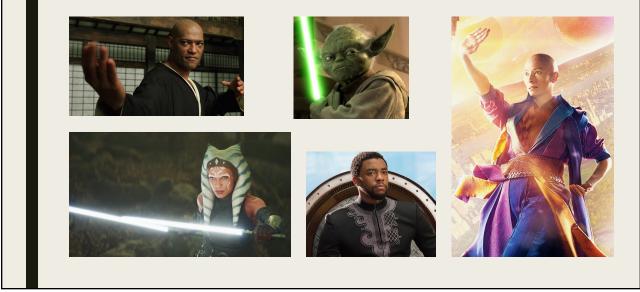

- Marcus Aurelius, Meditations 8.33

The Stoic Sage Reconsidered

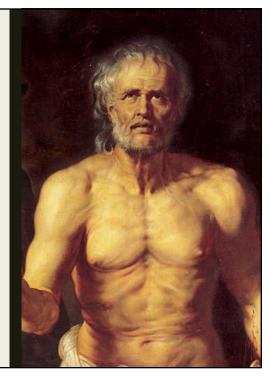

Challenges for Stoicism

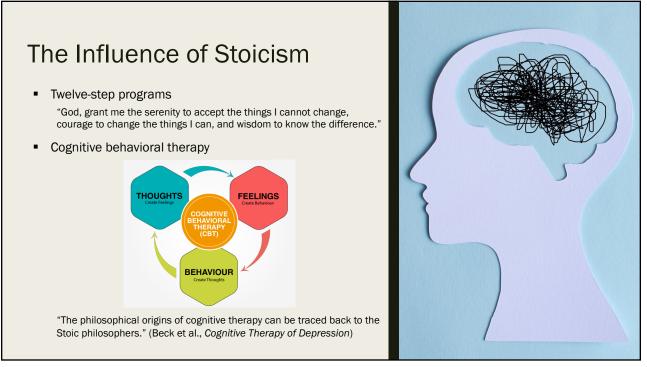

- Does Stoic ethics need Stoic physics?
 - not according to Lawrence Becker, A New Stoicism:

"Following nature means following the facts. It means getting the facts about the physical and social world we inhabit, and the facts about our situation in it [...] before we deliberate about normative matters. It means facing those facts—accepting them for exactly what they are, no more and no less—before we draw normative conclusions from them." (Becker, A New Stoicism)

- The value of external goods (or "preferred indifferents")
 - compare with Aristotle
 - egalitarianism at the cost of realism?
- The value of friendship / the possibility of love

"What is my object in making a friend? To have someone to be able to die for, someone I may follow into exile, someone for whose life I may put myself up as security and pay the price as well." (Seneca, Letter 9)

Modern Stoicism

- Updating Stoicism
 - view nature as less teleologically ordered
 - allow for degrees of virtue
 - allow for degrees of control
- Modern Stoicism movement
 - Stoicon and International Stoic Week

"In 2014, research findings for Stoic Week showed that on average Life Satisfaction increased for participants by 16%, flourishing by 10%, positive emotions by 11%, and there was a 16% reduction in negative emotions. This confirmed previous findings, including data collected from a 2014 Stoic Mindfulness and Resilience Training (SMRT) course, showing that when exercises were extended to 4 weeks, Life Satisfaction increased by 27% and negative emotions decreased by 23%."

19

Taking Sto	ck
THE GOOD LIFE = A MORAL LIFE? To live a good life , do you need to be a good person ?		virtue ethicists' answer: YES
	virtue ethicists?	how to live well
CONFUCIANS	YES benevolence righteousness propriety wisdom	cultivate feelings ritual reflection
ARISTOTLE	YES moderation courage justice, etc. (practical) wisdom	cultivate reason (and desires) habituation/action external goods (esp. friendship)
DAOISTS	NO flexibility open-mindedness freedom	occupy meta-perspective loosen commitments wander/play
STOICS	YES — virtue is the only good virtue = wisdom	live in harmony with nature live in harmony with others focus on what's under your control

Coming up

- Live Like a Stoic week
- Enjoy the break!
- Guest lecture by Muhammad Velji
- Stay tuned for details on:
 - Classes after break
 - Final debate on Mon. December 5